Nearly 12,000 enroll

By Dan Lassiter

Fall quarter at C/D has begun with a sharp increase in enrollment. Some 11,735 students had registered by opening day. "The growth rate is fantastic," said Jim Williams, director of admissions and records. "We have 11 per cent growth right now, and students are still registering."

That 11 per cent growth is in terms of FTE, or full-time equivalent students, (15 students taking 1 credit hour are the equivalent of one FTE student).

"We had a 4 per cent increase last year, we had 1 per cent the year before, and 4 per cent the year before that," said Williams.

There are 6,915 FTE students this year compared to 6,217 last fall quarter. The total body count is 11,735. Last fall it was 9,996, which means an increase of about 15 or 20 per cent in the number of students enrolled.

There are many reasons attributed to the increase. Most students tend to agree on two major points:

1. It's economical. If you live within the college district, you can't find a better price anywhere. If a student hasn't decided on a major he can experiment by taking different classes without being to hard on his pocket book.

2. It's convenient. C/D serves a wide area of DuPage. To most students it's just a short drive from home. In addition to the accessibility factor, a student can easily hold a job and go to school at the same time.

Williams gives two reasons for the increase: "The potential college student can't find a better price anywhere than right here. They tell me there is somewhat of a depression nation-wide. I don't know if that's true or not, but historically, anytime there is any kind of a depression more people go back to college."

Another reason Williams gives for the growth is that "the community now realizes that they have a quality college right in their own back yard. It takes a long time for something new to take hold."

"The community college concept is relatively new in Illinois. It used to be a second choice institution, a last place institution. People had that in their minds. But I think we've been around long enough now. We've had enough students go through here. Not only teenagers, but adults, parents, retired people, and all kinds of people. We've had enough of them go on to four-year colleges and graduate, and be able to compare what they got at the four-year school to what they did here."

Statistics show that there has been an increase in enrollment at C/D since its first year.

What will enrollment be like in the future? "We expect to continue to grow each year," said Williams. "We should eventually reach 25,000 students without question."

Staff seeks raise; cite enrollment hike

By Dave Hoekstra

College staff members are seeking a raise due to the increase in student enrollment this fall.

Charles Erickson, president of the Faculty Senate, presented a resolution to the Faculty Association Friday.

He requested that the Faculty Welfare Committee meet with members from the Board of Trustees to discuss "some form of additional remuneration for the faculty for the current academic year, due to the additional revenue generated by the significant increase in student enrollment."

"It's not just the faculty I'm concerned with," admitted Erickson. "The entire college staff and all employees need to be considered about additional remuneration."

"However, since I'm president of the Senate, my main concern is with the faculty."

The College of DuPage budget is predicated upon the number of full time equivalencies. State aid is determined by the total number of credit hours the college has accumulated in the quarter.

Then, the total number of hours is divided by 15 (hours considered for a full time student).

Erickson said that the total numbers of FTE's exceeded projections by 7 to 8 per cent.

As of Tuesday the fall enrollment stood at 11,881 as compared to last year's fall enrollment of 9,996.

College of DuPage will receive $13 per credit hour for each full time equivalency. Erickson attributes the enrollment increase to the economy and the acceptance of College of DuPage.

"Personally, I think College of DuPage has finally been recognized as a first class institution able to meet the needs of the community," said Erickson.

The increase in FTE's should please faculty members, who received a 4.2 per cent pay increase last year.

The board increased base salaries from $9,400 to $9,800. The faculty asked for an increase up to $10,340.

The faculty argued that the 4 per cent increase represented a 6 per cent cut in actual dollars, since there was a 10 per cent increase in the cost of living.

Urges landscaping project

More student projects can be undertaken here which would save money and give students more experience, according to William (Dub) Jenkins, student representative on the Board of Trustees.

Jenkins specifically referred to the landscaping of the three center malls of A Bldg. as a task that could be handled by the students.

Other issues that he sees as important are: a better explanation of what the small college is or should be, completion of A Bldg. and the construction of other facilities, and plans for re-organization of the student government constitution.

Student projects, like the landscaping of A Bldg., would save the college the expense of professional services. If this proves successful, this program could be enlarged to cover other areas of the college. Anyone interested in helping landscape A Bldg. should contact their cluster representative.

Finances are limiting the completion of A Bldg. A referendum to increase money to C/D will be going before the community next year. Jenkins said that student involvement in this could make a difference in its approval.

The cluster or small college is part of C/D, but few students know what it means or what purpose it serves. A clearer explanation is needed. Jenkins felt that this would help eliminate the confusion of how the small college works.

Re-organization of the student government constitution is in the planning stages. Jenkins said that it is sketchy and leaves questions. Specifics were not mentioned.

Jenkins was elected by the student body to the Board of Trustees last April. He can make and second motions but is not allowed to vote. Problems and suggestions concerning students are taken to the Board by him. He feels that he can cut much of the red tape and get things done faster.

As student body president in high school he gained experience in government.

Jenkins lives in Carol Stream. He is married and has no children. His wife Linda is employed by Fiat-Allis.

If you have a complaint or suggestion, you can reach Jenkins through the Dean of Students, Paul Harrington, or the Director of Campus Center, Ernest Gibson.

Traffic no problem opening day

By Carol Boddie

The expected traffic jam at C/D opening did not materialize.

The only real problem was double parking near K Bldg. early in the week, but extra security guards were on duty to prevent a recurrence.

Elmer Rosin, security chief, said the first lot east of Lambert Rd. off North Campus Drive is not being filled.

"People will simply have to use the facilities available," he stated. This might mean some walking. But the water wagon is out, so dust, at least, will not be a problem.

A paving schedule is being worked out to keep inconvenience to a minimum. Paving will begin on the first three lots on the east end. After these are completed the lots will be open to traffic from Park Blvd. The work is expected to be completed in four to six weeks.

It has been a long, frustrating wait. Back in March, C/D board trustees voted to use the working cash fund to pave the lots at A Bldg.

Board action was due, largely, to student petitions and complaints concerning the poor parking conditions. "Park at Your Own Risk" signs bear mute testimony to the mud and potholes awaiting the unwary driver.

The cost of the paving was expected to be $700,000 in March, but rising costs have pushed the project over $808,000.

Maria Leclaire, a student, circulated a petition at the beginning of the winter quarter, asking to have the walkway paved between A Bldg. and the interim campus. Ms. Leclaire brought her point home when she dumped her muddy clothes and shoes on the desk of Vice President John Paris.

Completed paving is to include five parking lots on the north side of A Bldg., north campus road, plaza roads and the walkway between A Bldg. and the interim campus.

Like a rubber band, the line of students at the Book Store contracted and expanded daily this week. On one occasion the line of students curled around the south end of the Courier Barn. Next week the rush ought to be over. Photo by Peter Vilardi.

Last call for ISSC

Applications for the Illinois State Scholarship Commission (ISSC) Monetary Award are available in the Student Financial Aid Office, K149.

The award, which is for the '74-'75 academic school year, is based solely on need. The deadline to apply is Oct. 1, although it is to the students advantage to apply as soon as possible, as notification is based on postal dates.

Gov. Walker recently signed the bill allowing ISSC to cover part-time students. This would enable students carrying between six and 11 hours to be eligible for the award. At this time, a part-time student's tuition can be pended only for up to eight hours at College of DuPage, as final guidelines have not been established.

So if you have a need for financial aid to get you through school, check it out before the upcoming deadline.

Plan free picnic here Wednesday

An all-college picnic, featuring country-bluegrass music by the Stringbean String Band and free food, will be held on the south terrace of A Bldg., Wednesday, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The Stringbean String Band has played consistently in the top night spots in the central Midwest area. Its repertoire consists of more than 150 songs; 20 of these are originals. In addition, the band has appeared on stage with the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band, David Bromberg, and John Hartford. Their instrumentation includes guitar, fiddle, banjo, mandolin, bass and drums.

Illness delays constitution draft

Plans for a future student government have been delayed this week due to the hospitalization of Interim President Maria Leclaire. A meeting to prepare for the drafting of a new constitution was also canceled.

Cafeteria prices up

By Gail Vincent

New students at College of DuPage will find that cafeteria prices are up about 5 per cent, Jeff Spiroff of Food Services reports. The cafeteria is trying to break even financially, and because of inflation, the prices have inevitably gone up.

New hours have also been announced. A Bldg. cafeteria will be open daily from 7 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. The Campus Center cafeteria will be open daily from 6:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Both will be closed on the weekends.

Even with the price rise, food will be cheaper than in a commercial restaurant. Hamburgers and cheeseburgers have risen to 55 cents and 65 cents, up 10 cents respectively, over fall of 1973.

Doughnuts went from 18 cents to 20 cents, and chocolate milk also went up two cents to 22 cents. Most of the deserts and salads also went up in price. The price increases also caused the cafeteria to offer only one vegetable and one potato with an entree, unlike last year when two were offered.

Something new this year besides the price increases is the one item dish known as the Chef's Special, featuring such dishes as pizza, lasagna and stroganoff.

Special diet food can be made available upon request to Spiroff. The cafeteria also offers a catering service on campus which ranges from coffee service to banquets. Spiroff asks that at least a one week notice be given for small affairs, and two weeks to a month for bigger events, depending on what services would be required.

If you're hungry and find the cafeteria closed, the school still has the hallway canteens with vending service for hot and cold drinks, candy and sandwiches.

Berg names Gibson new SA director

By Diane Pesek

Ernest Gibson, director of the Campus Center, has succeeded Paul Harrington, dean of student services, as director of student activities.

Gibson, who was assigned this position by President Rodney Berg, feels that student activities and services should be housed under the direction of the Campus Center to make them more accessible to the student.

"In order to bring about a true Campus Center, we need certain services, which were previously handled by the dean of students," Gibson explained. "We feel that these services really belong to the Campus Center."

Last summer, Gibson and Harrington worked out a program for a new "Campus Center concept." They assigned certain responsibilities, which were previously associated with the dean of students, to associate directors, who would be directly responsible to Gibson.

Student activities were then divided into three different areas: Student Life, Student Services, and Student Activities.

The Associate Director of the Campus Center for Student Life, Lucile Friedli, will act as counselor for student government, performing arts, chorus, publications, and Interclub Council.

Ms. Friedli indicated that C/D will have some form of student government this year. The Interclub Student Body President, Marie Leclair, is writing a constitution based on those of the student councils of other small colleges. This document will then be submitted to the student body for ratification.

Representatives will then be elected at large from the student body, according to the electoral process outlined in this constitution.

Anyone interested in student government, or in any of the other activities included in Student Life, may contact Ms. Friedli in her office, K 134.

Al Allison, associate director of the Campus Center for auxiliary services, is the coordinator of cafeteria services, games and recreational equipment, and the bookstore. He urges students, with complaints regarding these services, to contact him in K 134.

The Associate Director of the Campus Center for Activities, Ron Nilsson, works closely with committees formed by the student body. These committees book rock concerts, cultural and political speakers, and free talent at the Coffeehouse. They also plan the film series and domestic and foreign excursions.

Nilsson stated that he needs interested students to work with him on these committees. Those interested may contact him in K134.

Engineers plan crime movie

The Engineering Club, an organization of students primarily from the engineering and technology areas, will present a 30-minute color film, "Fighting Crime with Science," as its first program Monday at 10:30 a.m. in A1017.

The film gives a lively and revealing look at industrial, home, and institutional security and crime-reporting and response techniques and equipment. It should be of particular interest to electronics and computer enthusiasts.

The film shows several advanced scientific methods of developing evidence, as well as some of the sophisticated operations of the Chicago Police Department communications center. LETS, ERTS, and 911 systems are explained.

The 10:30 Monday meeting time is new for the Engineering Club, and it is hoped that interested students can make this scheduling of meetings approximately every other week, Joe Schaubroeck, the club president, said.

All students are welcome to the meetings and to membership. Bob Harvey, engineering instructor, is sponsor of the organization.

Find temporary home --- High Schoolers in A bldg.

By Beverly Mosner

Not all students on campus this quarter are enrolled at College of DuPage.

The DuPage Area Vocational Education Authority (DAVEA) has some 1,300 students on campus. Most of their classes are held on the third floor of A Bldg. which is not finished. This vast expanse, almost two football fields long, is unfinished because the college lacks funds.

DAVEA is here because its new facilities under construction in Addison did not meet the Sept. 3 completion date.

Dr. John Gibson, DAVEA director, explained: "We knew that it was going to be close, but the concrete truck drivers' strike really set us back."

But DAVEA felt it had made a commitment to the high school students, some of whom enrolled as early as last January. The task was to find a temporary location large enough to accommodate its students and faculty. Locations considered included the DuPage County Fairgrounds in Wheaton, a parochial school, an empty warehouse and even a vacant food store.

But C/D proved to be the solution. At its August meeting the DuPage College Board of Trustees unanimously voted to permit DAVEA the use of its facilities in A Bldg. They also voted to allow them the use of many of the college laboratories, the Learning Resource Center and the campus cafeteria.

DAVEA's new $8-million building is expected to be completed about Nov. 1.

Dr. Gibson said he appreciates the cooperation he has received from C/D. But he termed the temporary facilities "miserable" and the situation "difficult."

The third floor is not yet finished off, lacks equipment, has concrete floors and is dusty.

A thick white cloud of dust follows a person as he walks. The floor has many sunken areas. The walls are bare. The windows are spotted with plaster and tar.

The administration section has old area rugs and remnants of carpeting to keep the dust down.

DAVEA students are brought here by buses. They are here from 8-11 a.m. and 12-3 p.m. Many students can be seen standing in the parking lot waiting for the bus.

DAVEA is one of approximately 1,000 vocational high schools in the country.

Amnesty

Pro-

By James Walsh

President Ford's grant of conditional amnesty for draft evaders has understandably caused a great deal of controversy to flare up among certain segments of the American public.

As of April of 1974 more than half the people of the United States still opposed an unconditional amnesty. Of these, however, only 8 percent favored imprisonment of those who had resisted induction. These figures seem to bear out the fact that the majority of the American public is willing to forgive and forget the thousands of young men who refused induction provided they perform some form of alternate service. Still, the basic question remains, should amnesty in all cases be earned?

There is a set precedent for blanket amnesty in American history. Blanket amnesties were granted to large groups of American citizens after both the Whiskey Rebellion of 1795 and the Civil War. Both actions constituted treasonable acts against the federal government, yet few of the leaders of either conflict ever suffered conviction or imprisonment for their activities. All in all, there are some 34 instances of such grantings of amnesty throughout American history.

Such leniency could also be justified for a sizeable proportion of the Vietnam Draft evaders, their only crime being the nontreasonable act of avoiding the draft during an undeclared and unpopular war.

Whether this same form of amnesty could be applicable to deserters is another matter. Ford's oversight in allowing all deserters of the war to accept an undesirable discharge rather than appearing before the clemency board was a major weakness in his program.

Still, President Ford is to be complemented for his action last week. He has brought to the attention of the nation that for some 50 to 100,000 exiles, the war is not yet over and will not be over until they receive a fair hearing.

It is to be hoped that the clemency board will be merciful in its judgment of these men. Such mercy would go a long way in healing this long festering wound left from an unjust war.

Letters, Letters, Letters

To the Editor:

Over the last two months, there have been a lot of questions concerning the present G.I. Benefits Bill before Congress. We, the members of this office, have been answering some of these questions but, believe that it would be better for our congressmen and senators not only to answer these same questions but to state their respective views on this matter.

At the same time, we also feel it necessary that these people be contacted by every veteran here at C/D, in the surrounding community and through out the state. We feel that if you, the Veteran, will take the time needed to write them, the congressmen, they might get the idea we need higher benefits.

Some of the information concerning H. R. Bill 12628 includes:

1. Boost monthly educational assistance rates by 23 percent. A single would receive $270 a month, an increase of $50.
2. Provisions for direct low-cost federal loans up to $1,000 a school year. Loans would be due 10 years after completion of schooling.
3. A veteran would be entitled to 45 months of school assistance, an increase from the previous 36 months.

To the Editor:

Few men venture what is required of them, but one man here at the College of DuPage has done just that. Most men will go as far as they have to and maybe a little further, but again, there is one man who has done the work of several, here at C/D. This man has been a leader, adviser, instructor, and perhaps I can go even further and say, a good friend. He has been patient, conscientious, determined, honest, dedicated, shown interest in student needs outside the classroom, and shown a willingness to be of help in every case. This gentleman who I give my highest respect to is not just another person. I'm proud to know him and call him my friend. By now, you're wondering who I have been talking about. This man is Dr. Eugene Lebrez. Now that I've graduated from C/D and am transferring to a local school, (which he cautiously guided me with my curriculum and transfer requirements) I would like to thank him for all his work. Thanks again, Dr. Lebrez.

Rod McKuen

No, that is not our policy nor should it be that of the administration, faculty or students of C/D. No, our policy is just the opposite. We want every individual connected with the college to sit up and take notice of the hopes and the problems of everybody, everyday. It is not such an impossible task, but it will take effort.

Where do we start? Right here, on this page, every week. You will not find advertising, scores nor endorsements on this page, but rather, thoughts on those hopes and problems encountered by all of us, or some of us, or even, almost none of us.

As in any relationship, communication is essential. We will do our share and, we are certain, you will do yours. We will provide the space, not only for our ideas but for yours as well. We, the staff of The Courier, do not presume to be a representative function of any group on campus. We therefore, need your ideas, thoughts and letters.

We set no criteria for your letters. We do, however, ask that you limit them to 250 words. This rule is not steadfast but letters longer than that will run the risk of the editorial pen (this is not to be confused with the censorship pen). Address all letters to: Editor, Courier, College of DuPage, Glen Ellyn, Illinois.

Con-

Sometime during the past summer, I started going over in my mind possible topics for a speech for the upcoming Forensics year. After due consideration, I opted for the question of amnesty. Well, my chosen topic is no longer a question, and I can't help feeling somewhat cheated that my speech will go unheard. Unheard maybe, but not unwritten.

President Ford has seen fit to grant conditional amnesty to some 50,000 individuals who wanted no part of the Vietnam war. The 50,000 is a collective figure representing two groups, draft evaders and deserters. Both groups are eligible for the same amnesty program, but both are being treated differently.

Deserters turning themselves over to authorities will, sometime in the process, have to renew their allegiance to the country. I can remember being taught the Pledge of Allegiance in grammar school, but I don't ever remember being taught what all those words meant. How many five year olds even know the meaning of the word, "indivisible"? The words "I pledge . . ." mean nothing more to me than "I before e . . ." and I don't think I'm in a minority. How then are we to believe that repeating a platitude will atone for the commission of a crime? Are bank robbers now to be given the option of reciting the regulations of the FDIC or, facing imprisonment? Who knows, maybe former president Nixon won his pardon by remembering the Preamble to the Constitution.

Any person involved in the communication process knows the importance of words, but their importance is gleaned from an understanding and belief in their meanings. One can't help but wonder how many of the returning deserters will do nothing more than play lip-service to regain their status as American citizens. How many of us would utter the phrase, "I like you

Mr. Policeman" to avoid a traffic citation?

Once through the lip-service period, the returning deserter will be given an Undesirable Discharge. This discharge can be changed to a special Clemency Discharge if the individual agrees to serve two years in a low-paying federal, civic or institutional organization. There is absolutely no difference in these two types of discharges. Neither will legally hinder the individual from seeking employment, nor will either grant the same benefits enjoyed by veterans receiving Honorable Discharges. So, why work for two years for a meager wage in a menial job, you may ask.

Well, you are not alone in your question. I'm sure the deserters are asking the same thing. What it boils down to is this; 30 days ago, the crime of desertion was punishable by death, but today, all you need do is recite a few words and accept a one word change on a piece of paper. That seems fair, doesn't it?

For the sake of argument, let's say that half of the 50,000 eligible for amnesty are draft evaders. That's 25,000 jobs which have just been closed to the American public. The unemployment rate across the nation has been put at six per cent. If you were to consider just the Vietnam-era veteran. If there are 25,000 jobs available to individuals whose recent employment history includes sitting out a war in Canada, why can't we find jobs for those 6 per cent? That too seems fair, doesn't it?

As if this wasn't enough, a group in Canada calling themselves AMEX (Americans in Exile) have started screaming that Ford's plan isn't adequate. I guess they are right. It isn't easy remembering which hand to hold over your heart while reciting the Pledge of Allegiance after being out of the country for so long.

Forensics not speech?

Like most of you, I understood the terms "speech team" and Forensics Club to be synonymous. It wasn't until my limited involvement in last year's program that I realized that the "speech team" is only one branch of this organization.

Forensics encompasses every imaginable form of communication. Traditionally, the majority of the members have come from the performing arts and media departments. Traditions, in my mind are made to be broken. This is just the year to do it. No longer will the membership of this club be limited to those individuals interested in competition.

Competition in tournaments has always been and will remain the backbone of Forensics. But this year we wish to broaden our objectives.

For those of you interested in competitive speaking, we offer one of the most comprehensive programs of any junior college, and certainly one of the best among four-year institutions. In past years, we have successfully competed against such universities as Bradley, Ohio State, Ball State and Illinois State. We finished our last season by placing ninth in the National Junior College Tournament.

Not to be slighted are those of you interested in our non-competitive program. Last year, we were asked to speak at a number of civic functions including staging a debate on the recent RTV issue. This type of program was tried in a limited fashion last year but proved to be very successful. This year we want to expand this phase of the program.

Even if your only experience in public speaking was reciting the alphabet, or if you are interested in only researching material or, if you are only taking a three-hour Refresher Gregg Shorthand course, we are interested in you.

Are you interested in us? Remotely? Tyen come by and talk to one of our four coaches; Jim Collie, M-130B, Jodie Briggs, M-128B, B. F. Johnston, M-132B or Sally Hadley, A-2119C. Don't be discouraged if you don't find them in their offices your first try, they're probably out looking for you.

Palmieri speaks out on C/D sports

"Why should we ask our physical education students on any level, whether it be in gym class, intramurals or as part of an athletic team, to travel all over the county at their own expense, when we don't ask our physics or mathematics student to travel all over the county to attend their class?" wonders Dr. Joseph Palmieri, athletic director.

Palmieri was offered this job and accepted it because he thought he could come up with a program which would fill the student's needs. The school's excellent record in athletics and in their intramural and education program speaks for the outstanding job he has done.

He said in an interview that he feels sports on any level is an outlet for people to challenge themselves, and thus work towards their greatest potential.

"Athletics on any level teaches discipline and there is no other place in any classroom where you know whether you have worked honestly or where you stand at any moment. In math you don't know where you stand until after the exam. But in athletics you are tested by yourself and your peers in regards to how you improved daily against yourself and against others," says Palmieri.

Now that Palmieri has kept his commitment he expects the board to provide a physical education facility which having a domed roof could be used the year round. It would be used by the athletic teams, intramurals, gym classes, and the community. It would be ideally built here since the college is located in the exact center of the district.

"Furthermore the students should be up in arms for spending their money to participate in something that most other schools provide for their students," Palmieri said.

The Intramural Program at College of DuPage will get off to a flying start this quarter with 10 different activities being offered.

To kick off the program a six-man flag football league will be organized and ready to begin play, hopefully by the second week of October.

Other team sports include hockey and basketball.

Especially popular is basketball which will have two divisions: the "League of Champions" for the more experienced and the "Duffer League" for the less experienced.

The basketball leagues will begin play the second week of October, while hockey will kick off action in mid-November.

Intramurals will also be offered on an individual basis in areas such as football skills, riflery, gymnastics, a turkey trot, racquetball, and an open gym period.

If you are interested in participating either on an individual or on a team basis, simply fill out the "Participation Blank" on this page and return it to the gym.

If you have an interest in seeing any other sport started on an intramural basis be sure to contact Sevan Sarkisian, director of Intramurals. Phone 858-2800 Ext. 466.

We're No. 1 in nation

The 1974 minutes of the 33rd annual meeting of the National Junior College Athletic Association just released indicate that College of DuPage is truly an athletic leader in the United States. In addition to capturing the most regional championships and runner-up positions in any of the NJCAA 29 regions, the institution, for the third year in a row, has the most comprehensive men's athletic program with 14 sports.

The 1974 State Championships include basketball, gymnastics, ice hockey, swimming and diving, and tennis, with second place positions in cross country, golf, soccer and outdoor track and field. College of DuPage is one of the 547 community and junior colleges within the NJCAA.

During the previous 1972-73 season, DuPage shared national honors with Nassau Community College of New York for most regional championships. The Chaparrals won-loss record for that period was an astounding .800+ with a record of 204-50-2.

Athletic Director Joe Palmieri feels that these successful accomplishments are largely the result of outstanding coaches, athletes, faculty and administration and the pursuit of total college excellence.

In the coming year, DuPage will also have women's intercollegiate competition in volleyball, basketball, gymnastics, swimming, softball, badminton and tennis.

Editorial

By Klaus Wolff

"Man is like a turtle, he doesn't make progress unless he sticks out his neck," says Joseph Palmieri, director of athletics.

I had the dubious honor of attending a board meeting last Monday concerning spending $10,000 on a feasibility report over the proposed sports complex which is proposed for this campus.

First off, the meeting started half an hour late. Then everyone had to have a cup of coffee. That was the only accomplishment of the two-hour meeting.

What Palmieri must realize is that a small minority of board members who are holding up the feasibility report or start thereof have yet to get their heads out of the sand before they can stick out their necks.

One gives me an impression that he or she knows very little of what is taking place and the other one would boo a cure for cancer. I wonder how he got out of Philadelphia.

May I remind the board that were I an investor in the proposed complex for which I am shelling out a good deal of money which is shrinking more everyday, I would tend to take my money and idea elsewhere, especially if I saw that $10,000 was too big an expenditure.

It is also no secret that not just a few high schools in the area consider the athletic department foolish for not having facilities. But we all know whose fault that is.

Maybe it's time we or someone did a feasibility study on the board.

Golfers show strength

The DuPage golf team started out in winning form by defeating Kankakee, Triton and Thornton in a quadrangular meet Tuesday at the Village Links in Glen Ellyn.

The scores were DuPage 327; Kankakee 346; Thornton 350; Triton 401, over the 18-hole course.

Chuck Gust of DuPage shot a 36-43-79 to tie for first with Rick Kovach who shot a 41-38. Tied for third and fourth with scores of 81 were Natschke of Kankakee and Devine of Thornton. Mike Munro of DuPage came in fifth with an 82. Stohland of Kankakee came in in sixth place with a 83. Tim Hurley of DuPage placed seventh with an 87.

"We have a good shot at winning the state title," said Coach Herb Salberg. "Our toughest opponent will be last year's state champs, Lake County, and Joliet sounds tough."

Harriers win opening quad

The DuPage road-runners took first place in a quadrangular meet against Thornton, Wright, and Loyola at Reese Field in Chicago.

The scoring went DuPage 34, Loyola 36, Wright 57. Thornton arrived late.

The five-mile race was run by 26 men in a windy and blowy day. Still Jeff Klemann took first over the runner-up by 4 seconds with a time of 25 minutes and 40 seconds.

Finishing second was Curt Scholen, with a time of 25:44. He was the only Wright man to finish in the top 11.

Following with a close third at 25:52 was DuPage's own Ron Piro.

Loyola took the fourth through eighth positions.

DuPage's John Brunoli, Rick Davidson, and Joe Payne finished 9th-11th respectively.

Chaps open up with 2 losses

By Dan Veit

The College of DuPage football team upheld what seems to be school tradition by starting the season in agonizingly slow motion.

The Chaparrals were emotionally high for their first two games but physically outclassed by Triton, and a week later by Joliet.

The Chaps played host to the Triton Warriors Sept. 14, which was also Parent's Day, and dropped a 25-7 decision.

Triton picked on the obviously inexperienced secondary by filling the air whenever important yardage was needed. The Warriors had the game wrapped up by halftime on touchdown passes of 44, 29, and 27 yards, taking a 19-0 lead to the locker room.

Kim Schwartz scored the only Chaps touchdown midway through the third period on a 6-yard run. It climaxed a 35-yard drive started by a recovery of a Triton fumble. Schwartz was the yeoman of the offense, carrying 27 times for 150 yards.

DuPage had three opportunities of first and goal inside the 10, but couldn't push one over.

The Chaparrals traveled to Joliet Friday, Sept. 20, and ran into one very mean football machine, losing the game, 26-7, and several key players.

"Joliet has the finest offensive team I've seen," commented Coach Dick Miller. "They have both the size and the speed and simply overpowered us when they scored three times in the second half."

Starting middle linebacker Glen Palmer will be out of action three to four weeks after suffering a broken nose in the second half. Quarterback Joe Hitzemann had his shoulder separated and will probably be lost for the season.

Schwartz continued his assault on the school rushing record, gaining 84 yards on 13 carries, giving him a two game total of 234 yards on 40 carries for a 5.9 rushing average.

Defensive back Mike Contorno also has a shot at a school record for interceptions in a season. Contorno picked off two passes to give him four after two games, only two away from tying the school record of six. He also scored the only Chaps touchdown on a 90-yard run with an intercepted pass.

Saturday's game should be a confidence builder as the Chaps host Morton, who are in their last year as a school — sponsored team. If the Chaparrals can't handle this apparent soft spot on their schedule, it may be time to start thinking about some personnel changes.

Booters trounce Shimer 11-0

By Klaus Wolff

The soccer team's opening game victory was typified by the old adage, "a good offense is the best defense," according to Coach Bill Pehrson.

The Chaparrals trounced Shimer 11-0 while holding the opposition to no shots-on-goal.

"I was very pleased with the victory," said Pehrson. "I could see a good game being played from the way we played in practice."

Two things which especially pleased Pehrson were one teammate anticipating where another teammate would pass the ball, and the amount of communication on the field between the players.

The predominantly freshman team is held together by two leaders: Dave Newton and Elias Shehadi.

Newton keeps the team going by acting as the fiery sparkplug and constantly moving the team on to greater heights. In addition he plays a fine defensive game. Shehadi, whose job it is to score goals as striker, is a leader by example and lets his presence be felt through his actions. In the first game he scored five goals while assisting on another.

An important playmaker on the team is Aris Liapakis from Greece who plays center halfback and whose job it is to set up the scoring.

Over-all the key to the team's success was their hustle from beginning to end and not letting the opposing team get a shot-on-goal with their exceptional positioning and anticipation on the field.

Especially pleasing to the coach is the teams 'esprit-de-corps' which is better this year than in the last several years.

U OF CHICAGO NEXT

This Friday the University of Chicago plays the soccer team on the campus field located west of the base ball field. Come out and see the soccer team, which last year only scored 13 goals all season.

According to Coach Pehrson: "We have lost to them by one goal in three of the last four years. This year we probably have our best chance to beat them. I don't think we'll be overconfident from our opening day victory. I am quite sure it will be a nip-n'-tuck battle."

Publish Palmieri coaching article

College of DuPage Athletic Director Dr. Joseph Palmieri had an outstanding article published in the June issue of the "The Athletic Director," a national publication sponsored by the National Council of Secondary School Athletic Directors.

Dr. Palmieri's article, entitled "Evaluating Coaches," described the criteria and the goals the college uses to evaluate and improve the quality of coaching. The article was extremely well received by other professionals in physical education.

Appearing in the same publication were articles on the same topic by Arthur J. Gallon of the University of California and Jerry Pflug, of the Beaverton, Oreg., school system.
